bunq Travel Card

The bunq Travel Card membership is a type of bunq subscription that basically gives you the best card for your travels. Please also check our bunq card rules to find out more about the bunq Travel Card. Here is an overview of the included costs, fees and features:

- the bunq Travel Card is a Mastercard credit card but works just like a debit card. Every payment will be immediately deducted from your Travel Card balance;
- there are no account fees involved, the bunq Travel Card itself costs €9.99 which is a one-time fee for one card;
- to top up your bunq Travel Card, we offer you our top up feature, with a minimum of €10 per top up with a maximum of €500 each day. It is possible to use any consumer Visa or Mastercard card to top up your bunq Travel Card. We will charge you 0.5% when you top up with an EU card, or 2.5% when you use a non-EU card;
- when available in your country, you can also use Apple or Google Pay with your bunq Travel Card;
- you never pay foreign exchange fees because of our ZeroFX feature, non-euro payments are subject to the Mastercard exchange rates;
- you are able to withdraw money at ATM's worldwide, we charge you €0.99 per withdrawal.

bunq Promo

If you are invited to the bunq Promo subscription, you're able to discover all the amazing features offered to Premium users without the mentioned account fee for maintaining the account, with a couple of rules and exceptions:

- the amount you can spend via outgoing payments is limited (see the app for the details);
- for cash withdrawals, we charge €0.99 per withdrawal (next to possible exchange rates);
- interest, top ups by credit card and the invoice scanning feature are not available for bunq Promo subscription.

Explanation

Billing

In case you order an extra or replacement card we will charge you €9.00. This amount will be debited from your billing account immediately. All running costs will be debited from your billing account once a month (on your billing date).

We will start billing for an extra card or extra bank accounts, on the first billing date following the activation of the extra card/the moment we received the order for the extra bank accounts.

Upgrade

The above mentioned pricing will apply to you immediately from the moment you upgrade. However, we will only start billing for the subscription fee on the first billing date following the upgrade.

We will charge you the monthly fee for extra cards and/or accounts in case you upgrade and your number of cards and/or accounts exceeds the number included in your subscription.

By way of illustration, imagine you have five active bunq cards and decide to upgrade to bunq Premium. Only three bunq cards are included in your bunq Premium subscription, so on top of the subscription fee we will charge you a monthly fee per card for the two cards which exceed the included amount.

On the first billing date following an upgrade, we will count the number of withdrawals over the previous billing period (incl. any withdrawals made after the last billing but before the upgrade) and we will charge a fee for all withdrawals above the number of withdrawals included in your subscription.

By way of illustration, imagine you made eight withdrawals since your last billing date and subsequently you upgrade. After the upgrade you made another four withdrawals. On the next billing date we count a total of twelve withdrawals. Ten withdrawals are included in your subscription, so we will charge you for two withdrawals.

Non-euro card payments and cash withdrawals

For transactions executed in currencies other than euro, we convert the transaction amount to euro using the Mastercard exchange rates before we debit your account. This means the initial amount debited at the time of payment is an estimated amount, which may differ from the final amount after the payment is fully processed due to possible exchange rate fluctuations. If you want to check the current Mastercard exchange rates, please have a look at their website.

Safekeeping Fee

We keep your funds as safe and clean as possible at the European Central Bank. This comes at a substantial cost to us. To fund this for larger balances of over €100,000, we have a safekeeping fee in place of 3 cents per day, per €1000 (rounded down) that applies to your balance above €100,000.

By way of illustration, imagine you hold €100,000 in your bunq account(s). This balance is free of charge. If you hold €105,700 in your account(s), you will be charged 3 eurocents for every day per extra €1000 you have, so you will be charged €0.15 per day that you have this balance.

Failed Mastercard chargeback after arbitration	€35.00

Explanation

Incidental special costs

Sometimes your incidental financial matters with a third party require us to get involved. Because this involvement requires time and effort from our side, we can charge you the costs we make in order to do our job.

Garnishments

Third parties have the possibility to (preliminary or definitely) extract funds from your account to repay an outstanding debt, for example due to unpaid taxes or open loans. These third parties require either a prior permit from a judge or a court order to put a garnishment of your accounts. As processing these garnishments is a difficult and timely process, we charge you with the costs as described above. When you have a positive balance on your accounts, we will settle the balance with the costs. We will also charge you with the costs when there is no balance on the accounts.

Bank statements

Your organisation may be required to provide a standard bank statement towards your audit firm. To support your organisation with this, we can draft the required statement in accordance with the format as provided by the NBA (<https://www.nba.nl/tools-en-voorbeelden/standaardbankverklaring/>) in Dutch or English. When you request us to draft a standard bank statement concerning your account with us, we will charge you the applicable fee.

Swift inbound transfers

Swift inbound transfers are transactions that are made or requested outside of the SEPA-area. Depending on the height of the amount of these payments, we charge inbound Swift costs. Please look at the table for more information on the rates.

Mastercard Chargebacks

Chargebacks are situations in which you dispute a card payment you made. Please note that Mastercard can decide the dispute was unjustified (either before or after arbitration), for which the costs will be charged to you. Any additional costs charged by Mastercard for fraudulent or incorrect chargebacks (on top of the above-mentioned cases), we hold the right to pass these costs on to you when your case gives reason to do so. We want to stipulate that these costs can be substantial. For more information on these costs, please refer to the Mastercard Chargeback Guide.

Re-opening a permanent closed account

If you would like to re-open a bunq account that you already decide to close permanently, we are happy to help. It requires a lot of time and effort on our side to make this happen for you, that is why we charge you a fee for re-opening a permanent closed account. Please check out our Terms and Conditions if you would like to close your account through the bunq app in a revertible way and avoid this fee.
