Sending money in foreign currency or to countries outside of SEPA in euros	The account provider transfers money on behalf of the customer from the customer's account to another account in a currency other than the euro or to countries outside of SEPA in euros.
Receiving money in foreign currency or from countries outside of SEPA in euros	The customer receives money in his account in a currency other than the euro or from countries outside of SEPA in euros.
Cards and cash
Providing a debit card (extra debit card)	The account provider provides a payment card linked to the customer's account. An additional payment card is provided at the request of the customer, for example for a second account holder
Providing a debit card (replacement)	The account provider provides a payment card linked to the customer's account. The amount of each transaction made using the card is taken directly and in full from the customer's account. A replacement debit card is provided when a previously provided debit card can no longer be used due to loss, theft or defect.
Providing a credit card	The account provider provides a payment card linked to the customer's payment account. The total amount of the transactions made using the card during an agreed period is taken either in full or in part from the customer's payment account on an agreed date. A credit agreement between the provider and the customer determines whether interest will be charged to the customer for the borrowing.

Overdrafts and related services
Arranged overdraft	The account provider and the customer agree in advance that the customer may borrow money when there is no money left in the account. The agreement determines a maximum amount that can be borrowed, and whether fees and interest will be charged to the customer.
Unarranged overdraft	The customer borrows money when there is no money left in the account (or when the customer has gone past their arranged overdraft limit) and this has not been agreed with the account provider in advance.
Other services
Paper account statements	The account provider periodically provides a paper overview of the customer's account. This overview will at least show the balance and the debits and credits.
